FORMER DRIVER PLEADS GUILTY IN SCHOOL BUS CRASH

A former school bus driver who drove a bus loaded with children into a house last spring appeared in Denver County Court today and pleaded guilty in connection with the case.

Katherine Sierra (dob: 08-19-47) pleaded guilty to three counts of careless driving resulting in injury (M1), naming all 25 victims.

She will be sentenced on November 14, 2006 at 8:30 a.m. in Denver County Courtroom 100K. She faces supervised probation with the possibility of up to 6 months in jail, community service, restitution, a letter of apology to the students and must take driving classes. Also as a result of her guilty plea, she will be assessed 12 points on her driver's license, resulting in suspension of her driving privileges.
