MAN CHARGED IN WOMAN'S MURDER

Denver District Attorney Mitch Morrissey has formally charged a man accused in the stabbing death of 26-year-old Britt Mackay.

Freddy Aguilera-Zamora (dob: 12-30-75) is charged with first-degree murder (F1).

On Wednesday afternoon, May 23, 2007 Denver police responded to Warren Avenue and Marion Street to investigate a report of a suicidal person. They located Aguilera-Zamora, who was injured, and he was taken to Denver Health Medical Center. Further investigation led officers to an apartment he shared with the victim, where her body was found. The charge alleges that Aguilera-Zamora murdered Mackay after learning that she wanted to end their relationship.

Aguilera-Zamora remains in custody in the Denver County Jail. He is scheduled to be advised of the charge on June 4, 2007 at 8:30 a.m. in Denver County Courtroom 12T.
