PARENTS PLEAD GUILTY IN METH LAB CASE

A mother and father accused of operating a meth lab that caught fire in their home last summer have pleaded guilty in connection with the case today. They were charged in connection with the drug lab and exposing their one-year-old daughter to its dangers.

Aaron Neal (dob: 09-06-72) pleaded guilty to manufacturing a controlled substance (F3) and attempted child abuse (F4).

Kimberly Angelo-Neal (dob: 12-30-74) pleaded guilty to child abuse (F4).

They are scheduled to be sentenced on February 22, 2008 at 8:30 a.m. in Denver District Courtroom 11. The presumptive range for sentencing on a class 3 felony is up to 12 years in prison; the range for a class 4 felony is up to 6 years in prison.
