PARENTS SENTENCED IN METH LAB CASE

A mother and father accused of operating a meth lab that caught fire in their home last summer have been sentenced in connection with the case today. They were originally charged with possessing and manufacturing meth as well as child abuse for exposing their one-year-old daughter to the dangers of the meth lab they were operating.

Aaron Neal (dob: 09-06-72) pleaded guilty earlier to manufacturing a controlled substance and attempted child abuse and was sentenced to 12 years in the Department of Corrections.

Kimberly Angelo-Neal (dob: 12-30-74) pleaded guilty earlier to attempted child abuse and was sentenced to 4 years in Community Corrections.

The child is living with relatives out of state.
