PRISON GANG MEMBER FOUND GUILTY

A Denver jury has returned guilty verdicts today in the case of a prison gang member accused of racketeering, drug dealing, witness tampering and assault.

Danny Shea (03-13-75) was convicted of violating Colorado's Organized Crime Control Act (F2), manufacture and distribution of a controlled substance, (F3), witness tampering (F4), and second-degree assault (F5).

Shea faces up to 96 years in prison when he is sentenced on June 5, 2008 at 1:30 in Denver District Court.
