TEACHER PLEADS GUILTY IN DRUG CASE

A former science teacher accused of possessing and distributing drugs has pleaded guilty in connection with the case today.

Jordan Marcowitz (dob: 05-13-80) has pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled substance (F4).

He was arrested December 7, 2011 following a Denver Police Department narcotics operation, and was charged with possessing and distributing a type of controlled substance similar to Ecstasy, called Molly. There were no allegations that he sold drugs to students.

Marcowitz is scheduled to appear in Denver District Courtroom 5D on August 2, 2012, for sentencing.
