MAN CHARGED WITH ASSAULTING POLICE OFFICERS

Denver District Attorney Mitch Morrissey has formally charged a man accused of throwing rocks at cars and assaulting three police officers last week.

Brian D. Deese (dob. 08-24-1971) has been charged with three counts of assault in the second degree (F4) and one count of reckless endangerment (M3).

The charges allege that on November 5, 2015, at about 3:50 pm, Deese was throwing rocks at cars near Alameda and Santa Fe. When contacted by police, the charges further allege he attacked and seriously injured one officer, then fled and injured two other officers before being taken into custody.

Deese remains in custody; his bond is set at $5,000. He is scheduled to appear in Denver County Courtroom 2100 on December 10, 2015, at 8:00 a.m. for a preliminary hearing.
