MAN SENTENCED TO LIFE IN PRISON FOR 2016 SLAYING OF HOMELESS MAN

A man convicted of the shooting death of another man in November 2016 in south Denver was sentenced yesterday in Denver District Court.

Makhail Purpera (dob: 08-27-87) was found guilty in August after a seven-day jury trial of first-degree murder-felony (F1) and second degree murder (F2). He was sentenced to life in prison without the opportunity of parole.

On or about November 5, 2016, Purpera shot and killed 54-year-old Wayland Busby while trying to steal marijuana and other belongings from him. Busby was living in a tent neat S. Platte River Drive and Dartmouth Avenue when his body was found by a Denver Park Ranger during a routine check of the area.
